Find out what police and council are doing in Brent.

Speak to officers.

Visit stalls where you can ask questions of

- Police
- Council antisocial behaviour and CCTV officers
- Drug and drink use outreach workers

Hear from Chief Superintendent Luke Williams the northwest London police commander

A large proportion of violent crime is committed by people who were previously involved in antisocial behaviour.

Everyone can be safer if antisocial behaviour is reduced.

Then meet your local police sergeant

- hear what police and council are doing to reduce antisocial behaviour in your neighbourhood
- identify specific locations and actions you would like to see taken
- say how more community members can be encouraged to report incidents so they can be followed up
- suggest ways in which local community members, organisations and schools can help people engage instead in positive activities
- discuss how you can help individuals avoid slipping into antisocial behaviour.
