

With 80% of women reporting harassment in public spaces and 75% of harassment victims saying no one helped, the need for action is urgent.

We are excited to be working with the Suzy Lamplugh Trust, who has partnered with L'Oréal Paris to deliver bystander training across the UK. Developed by international NGO Right to Be, this globally approved free programme empowers individuals to safely step in and support victims of public harassment by teaching them five practical tools.

Most people want to help but do not know how - this training changes that. Together, we can make public spaces safer for everyone.

Join over 22,000 people in the UK who have already completed online training. Sign up now to our FREE 30-minute session on two dates, exclusive for Kingston Borough Community, who live, work and study.
